Foreword

TIME marches on! As the glamour of college days fades, it is the purpose of this edition of Bubbles to unveil the true memories and happy experiences of life in Boiling Springs College.

Dedication

TIME covers monuments of bronze with patina and shafts of marble with mould. But the monument a man builds for himself in a well-lived life shines with an ineradicable glory in the faces of youth and in the hearts of his friends.

So to you, Mr. Hamrick, whose life has been vital for thirty years to the on-going of Boiling Springs College as trustee, patron and friend, we dedicate this volume.

It is our hope that the students of succeeding years will ask why this class chose to honor you.

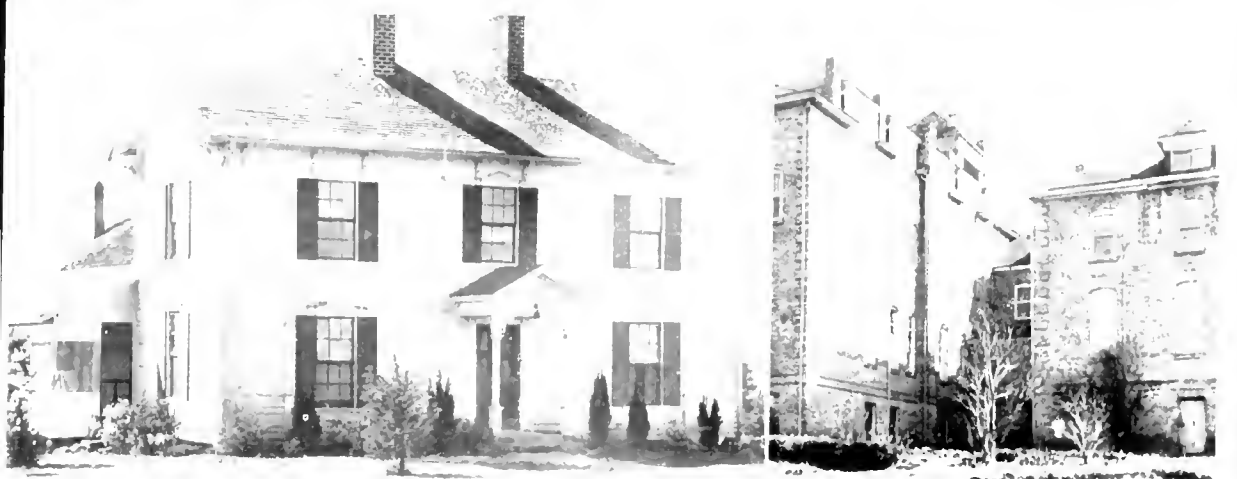

May we say in brief: It is for your Christian manhood and brotherhood; for your unselfish devotion to the larger life of the world about you that we choose you.

Alma Mater

*At the foot of the mountains
Is our college—proud she stands,
Serving all who want her service;
Blessing all with outstretched hands,
Alma Mater, Alma Mater,
We sing our love to thee,
We pledge our hearts in deep devotion,
Our love, our faith, eternally.*

"We Pass On"

*We, the Senior Class,
Must bid you all adieu.
Time has come to pass,
When we must part with you.
Our two years' stay here
Has been a happy, joyous one.
So we regret to leave you now,
But we must; our work is done.*

*Our work at Boiling Springs
At the foot of the Piedmont Hills,
Has helped to build our characters,
And has given us many thrills.
Now, O Boiling Springs College
Where things have been wrought well,
We bid you our fondest blessings,
And with regret say, "Farewell."*

MADGE HARDIN, Class Poet.

Class Prophecy

Lattimore, N. C., March 25, 1950.

Miss Annie Laura Roberts, Alumni Secretary of B. S. C.,
Boiling Springs College, Boiling Springs, N. C.
Dear Miss Roberts:

Since receiving your letter asking about our class-mates of several years ago, I became interested and began collecting material concerning them as a sort of hobby. At last the work is complete and I am passing it on to you feeling that it will prove of no little interest.

I suppose first you would like to hear of our class President, Wilbur Martin, who is now a U. S. Senator from North Carolina. His wife, the former Miss Margaret Lee Liles, is pressing him to introduce a bill for "minimum wages and maximum hours." Besides all her social worries, Margaret has a greater care because of Miss Edith Greene, who is Secretary to Mr. Martin.

Lucy Crisp and "Bill" Patton are Coaches at Harvard University. Paul Greene is a renowned French professor there. Paul and "Bill" are rivals for Lucy's hand, but her heart is still in Tennessee.

Mack D. Fagan's good looks won him a contract as an artist's model. He is now posing for Camel Cigarette Advertisements, while his wife, formerly Nellena Jones, is in Japan competing in the Olympics representing the U. S. as world's greatest broad-jumper.

Lewis Womack, who received such excellent training in butchering while at B. S. C., is now owner of the Eat-um and Run Restaurant. Even though Miss Bonnie Price has received a large legacy she is the head waitress in his restaurant.

Margaret Herndon's red hair has at last proved to be of some value to her rather than just an ornament. She is now in Hollywood acting as a double for Ginger Rogers.

J. P. Hoyle, the second George Burns, is doing a skit on the radio every night with Nannie Goodman as Grace Allen. As a sort of hobby he is writing love poems. His wife, formerly Frances Jones, growing tired of writing accompaniments to his poems and to have more time for her own compositions, has been granted a divorce. She was prompted to do this when she won such recognition by writing a school song for Catawba College.

Bowman Moore, who is proprietor for the Fly Higher Airport, has just bought a new trimotor plane. He has appointed "Kat" Hamrick as air hostess, partly because of her youthful charm, but mostly in sympathy for the little greasy mechanic, B. T. Price, who is still following after her.

Surely you remember Robert Long, who was President of the student body at B. S. C. He has caused quite a sensation by broadening Einstein's Theory to include Chemistry. Mrs. Long, who before marriage was Miss Frances Calton, has just sold two million copies of her book in which she is trying to convince the public that "the long way home is the sweetest."

Can you imagine such distinction coming to a class-mate of ours as to Florence Burnett who is first woman Governor of New York? Her success, however, is due in part to the never ceasing effort of her campaign manager, Miss Aileen Scism.

Our husky Tennessean, Joe Brooks, has become owner of the Suit Everybody Mill.

Graham Piercy as Editor of the Annual while at B. S. C. has moved up to higher and nobler honors as Editor of THE BIBLICAL RECORDER.

The love affair of Margaret Talbert and R. E. Thompson was finally realized when after many years of struggle he became owner of the T. and T. Dude Ranch.

I'm sure you remember how proud Eugenia Scruggs was of her ten dollar shoes and twenty dollar dresses. She still has these exquisite garments, but alas! they belong to her employer for whom she is a model!

Woodrow Hill's leadership in connection with B. S. U. won him the distinctive place as chaplain in the U. S. army.

You remember how all the girls at B. S. C. would seek Madge to solve their love problems because of her mysterious power of looking into the future. Well, she is still looking into the future as fortune teller in the Barnum and Bailey Circus.

D. W. Moore gained so much experience at healing broken hearts at B. S. C. that he decided to become a heart specialist. He is now connected with the Johns Hopkins Hospital.

We always knew that such singing as Sarah Mae Falls did while at B. S. C. would get her somewhere. She is now co-starring with Grace Moore in the Metropolitan Opera.

As for myself, the collecting of these data is quite in line with my work as research professor in American history at Chapel Hill, and I shall use them in the next edition of my book on "The Contribution of the Denominational College to American Life."

Very sincerely,

JULIA HUNT.

Senior Class History

We pledge ourselves in deep devotion,

Our love, our faith eternally.

As the last strains of our school song faded away, the group of seniors who were sitting around the spring lapsed into silence; somehow an unusual seriousness had taken hold of us as we realized that our days at Boiling Springs were almost over.

Suddenly someone broke the silence—"These bubbles coming to the top of the spring and starting little ripples that run into each other remind me of the way our good times—and our work—have so frequently overlapped. But we always managed to get there and enjoy doing it."

"Yes, don't you remember how hard we worked on our freshman play—and yet what a good time we had?"

"Yes. Didn't we have fun spreading an epidemic of Mountain Mumps?"

One after another joined in, until reminiscences filled the air. Of course we could never forget that first afternoon when Miss Mull, our dean, took us on a hike hoping to avert an epidemic of homesickness. Then, when we finally got to know the faculty and students and were acquitted of the charges brought against us in Rat Court, we were amazed that we could ever have been so blue—and so green. There were pleasant memories of the society and faculty receptions, picnics, and banquets. Someone suggested that we start a movement to celebrate Washington's birthday at least once a month so that all future students will have more hikes to the river.

Of course, this discussion didn't last long until someone remembered the good times we had had at ball games. We all agreed that the football game with Mars Hill was one good reason that football games should be four minutes shorter; and that we could never forget the night that our girls' basketball team beat the Appalachian team. We were surely proud of those of our class who had been on the girls' basketball teams that won the state championship for both years.

This made us remember that several of our class had also been on the debating teams that won the state championship last March—and that one of our group was elected president of the State B. S. U. last October.

Then we heard someone say in a rather hesitant manner—"The first time I saw you, I didn't like you so well—but now—well, it must be what Boiling Springs does to people." At least, we decided that, in spite of our losing several well-remembered students who went to work or to other schools, we had enjoyed this year so much because we had become better acquainted with our fellow-students—and we no longer had to look up to seniors.

Every senior seemed to realize that he had gained much from his two years at Boiling Springs—development in literary and musical activity, dramatics, forensics, athletics, and religious work—and perhaps most of all, the opportunity to be with and know in a personal way both students and teachers. Once more we pledged ourselves in deep devotion, our love, our faith eternally.

ROMANCERS - RHYTHM ORCHESTRA

Glee Club

OFFICERS

President	Joe Walker	Vice-President	Nellena Jones
Secretary	Margaret Lee Liles	Treasurer	Rachel Huggins
Director	Miss Margaret James	Accompanist	Frances Jones

The Glee Club of Boiling Springs College was organized in September, and has been one of the outstanding extra-curricular activities on the campus. The singers have appeared in numerous programs in Boiling Springs Baptist Church and at a number of other churches in the two associations. A lovely program of Christmas music was rendered on December 10th at the Boiling Springs Church which was beautifully decorated with Christmas greens and candelabra. Miss Margaret L. James, head of the Department of Music, is director of the organization. Miss Frances Jones, a senior of Boiling Springs College, is the accompanist.

Phi Rho Pi Forensic Chapter

First row: Louise Brown, Aileen Scism, Margaret Lee Liles, Edith Greene, Sarah Mae Falls. Second row: Woodrow Hill, Leonard Long, Willbur Martin, Graham Piercy, Woodrow Matheny, Mrs. George J. Burnett.

The Boiling Springs Chapter of the Phi Rho Pi, National Junior College forensic organization, has been organized by the students who participated in the State Debate Tournament, under the direction of Mrs. George J. Burnett, head of the speech and debating departments.

The members are: Misses Margaret Lee Liles, Louise Brown, Aileen Scism, and Sarah Mae Falls; Messrs. Woodrow Matheny, Leonard Long, Willbur Martin, and Graham Piercy. Miss Edith Greene and Mr. Woodrow Hill, who debated last year are members also.

Mrs. Burnett has coached her teams to high honors. The young people made remarkable records at Winthrop, Appalachian, and Catawba Colleges; not only in debating the question that Congress should be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry, but in extemporaneous speaking and readings.

In the state tournament our girls won seven out of eight debates and the boys nine out of ten, thus winning the state championship.

Athletics

Coaches and Cheer Leaders

Above: Mr. Rice, Coach of men's athletics; Miss Marjorie Crisp, Coach of women's athletics.
Below: Louise Brown, John Blanton, Eugenia Scruggs, Mack D. Fagan, Cheer Leaders.

Why Boiling Springs Wins

"Eleven men in every play" was the motto of one of the great football coaches of America. Under the direction of Coach Rice, the football team of Boiling Springs College has adopted this motto for its own, and has exemplified it on many occasions, notably in the hard-fought Mars Hill game. The same spirit of team work has been shown by the girls' basketball players, who, under the expert coaching of Miss Marjorie Crisp, won every junior college game of the season. In every game the teams were aided and cheered by the support of the entire student body and the active efforts of our enthusiastic cheer leaders, Louise Brown, John Blanton, Eugenia Scruggs, and Mack D. Fagan.

Girls' Athletic Association

- President*LUCY CRISP
- Vice-President*MARGARET HERNDON
- Secretary and Treasurer*FRANCES JONES
- Captains*KATHERINE HAMRICK, NELLENA JONES

The Athletic Association, divided into Reds and Blacks, sponsors all athletic programs put on by the Physical Education Department. This is the second year that the point system has proved very successful. This system enables every girl in college to try for a letter, monogram and sweater by earning so many required points in each activity. The intra-mural tournaments have met with great success.

Girls' Intercollegiate Basketball

First row: Nellena Jones, Lucy Crisp, Quessie Hunt, Cassie Crowe, Margaret Herndon, Rachel Jenkins.

Second row: Mozelle Costner, Louise Brown, Sara Bess Ledford, Miss Marjorie Crisp, (Coach), Julia Hunt, (Manager).

The Girls' Basketball Team this year is, we believe, the best we have ever had. It is a co-operative, persevering, and successful team. Both Coach and team have worked incessantly, drilling old plays and mastering new ones. Jones, Crisp and Hunt lead the scoring. Much of the praise for the success of the year is due to our splendid guards, Herndon, Crowe, and Jenkins. The co-operation of the team at all times is unsurpassable.

FOOTBALL

(Editorial in May Issue of Duke Power Magazine)

Everyone, of course, knows that the trend of rates for electric service has been constantly downward from the very origin of the electric power industry. The use of electricity in the home has just as consistently increased. As a matter of fact the constant increase in the amount of current used per consumer has been responsible for the constant decrease in the rates paid for that service.

Today, with more than 21 million American families enjoying the conveniences and advantages of electric service in the home, with approximately 15 million radios in service, with more than eight million electric refrigerators in service, with well up toward a million and a half electric ranges and tens of thousands of electric water heaters in service, with an increased appreciation of lighting which has stepped up the use of electricity for this purpose tremendously, and with millions of electric irons, coffee percolators, toasters, vacuum cleaners, washing machines and other appliances in use, the cost of this service to the average American home is approximately 9 cents per day.

In other words the average American family pays each day for electric services, which has done more and is doing more to raise the standard of living than almost anything one can mention, an amount equivalent to the tax on one and one-half packs of cigarettes, the tax on one and one-half gallons of gasoline—less than two-thirds the total price of a pack of cigarettes, less than one-half the price of one gallon of gasoline.

And while the average family is paying 9 cents per day for electric service that same family was paying $1.17 per day for governmental costs in 1932. And, of course, that governmental cost is substantially more today than it was in 1932.
